TRUCK DRIVERS CAUSE COMPLAINT

Complaints have been made to which The Journal has been asked to give publicity concerning the furious driving of trucks. It is stated that particularly through West Coleman they are a menace to life, and in addition unnecessary damage is caused to the road surface. Police action is urged by the complainants to stop this disregard of public safety. They state they will place their complaints before the council and the R. C. M. P.

Ledieu's Advt. Gains Notoriety

Subject of Verse in Leading Morning Paper in London, Eng.

When Ed. Ledieu wrote an advertisement which was published in The Journal concerning the measures to be followed to collect debts of long standing for groceries supplied from his store, he little thought that his message would travel around the world. In many places in Canada daily and weekly newspapers commented on it, and Coleman was brought to the attention of people who in most instances had never heard of the town.

Here's the most striking instance of how the unusual is noticed and gains publicity. The father of George A. Brown, (Canadian Pacific express agent here) who lives in Sussex, Eng., and who with his wife spent the summer here two years ago, was reading his morning newspaper, The Daily Express, of London, when the following arrested his attention:

SETTLING 'EM

A grocer who announced the other morning that customers who didn't heed his warning

And pay their bills would find that they'd be shamed, To all the folks of Coleman they'd be named;

Now says that though some customers were nettled, There's scarce an old account that's still unsettled.

In small type beneath the above the footnote states, "Coleman, town in Alberta."

The issue in which it was published was March 1. The Daily Express is one of London's popular morning dailies with a circulation of over a million copies each day.

Dramatic Society Plays At High School

The one-act plays presented by the high school dramatic society on Thursday and Friday evenings were very entertaining and the students are to be complimented on their efforts. The staging was very nicely arranged and the announcements preceding each play added to the interest. These plays help the students to develop poise and expression, and form a pleasant diversion from the regular course of studies.

The plays were directed by Miss Bessie L. Dunlop, and the announcements preceding each play were given by Jim Allan, Isabel McDonald and Rosie Korolyk. The proceeds will be used to buy properties for the dramatic society.

Fortune won't smile on you unless you meet her half way.

SOUND LEADERSHIP NEEDED STATES PRESIDENT BEATTY

Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in a letter to George W. James, president of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, on "Making Canada a Better Place in Which to Live and Work," stated:

"Undoubtedly some of the difficulties that confront us are the result of bad leadership to which we have given undue confidence. Some of these self-constituted leaders have been actuated by self-interest and others by belief in economic theories more remarkable for their novelty and widely heralded by thoroughly dependable promises of relief than they were for the soundness of their economic bases. The need is for sound leadership in facing national problems, and I would suggest that as these problems move forward to their solution it would be well if those who discuss them in editorial columns should look towards sound dependable leaders whose proposals for dealing with our problems are founded upon time-tested and proven fundamentals; and having found such leaders, they should be given whole-hearted support, even when political expediency would seem to point in other directions."

Musical Festival Syllabus in November

Mrs. J. H. Farmer, secretary of the festival committee, asks The Journal to state that owing to the next festival being changed from November 1938, to the spring season of 1939, the syllabus will not be issued till about Nov. 1. Many enquiries have been received by parties from outside points in anticipation of the festival being held in the Fall. It was decided at the annual meeting in January that the change would be made to the spring season.

Elks Annual Dance Well Supported

The annual St. Patrick's Day dance of Coleman Elks Lodge was fully up to its usual high standard, and was well supported by young people from the Pass towns. The hall was lavishly decorated with streamers of Elks' colors, and music by the Arcadians orchestra kept the dance rolling merrily along from 9:30 p.m. till 2:30 a.m. The committee appreciate the support accorded them.

25 years ago Bob Livett, president of District 18 U.M.W.A., was a football player of note in the Pass towns. The Fernie Free Press in its 25-Year Ago notes, records that he was a member of a committee which met there to arrange a schedule of matches. Joe Emmerson of the International office was one who played against Bob when the latter played for Bellevue team.

Police Raid Results in Fines

About Twenty Frequenters To Appear Before Police Magistrate

Between midnight and 1 a.m. Saturday night, R. C. M. P. and town police, provided with search warrants, raided two places on Main street which for a considerable time had been under observation for gambling. Complaints of an anonymous nature had been received by mounted police officers, some complaining that husbands had gambled their wages and therefore their families were going short. Chief Antle summoned the men operating the places and they appeared before Police Magistrate Gresham on Monday morning. They pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and costs.

The names of about twenty men were taken and they will be summoned as frequenters. Many packs of cards, some of which had never been used, were confiscated by the police.

It is reported that one man, from his winnings, at various times, boasted of having purchased a new car.

Mischiefous Boys Cause Danger

Firepots left burning at night on Fifth street, where ditches are being dug to make service connections to the water mains, have been turned over by boys and extinguished, causing danger to car drivers, as well as pedestrians who might stumble into an unprotected ditch.

There is a penalty for interfering with these danger signals, and parents are urged to caution their boys. If caught, police action will follow against guilty parties.

New Road To Sports Field

Suggested to Council in Letter From International Coal Co.—Legion Club Site Approved

Present at the regular meeting of the town council on Tuesday evening were Deputy Mayor Borrow, Crs. Antrobus, Chapman, Plante and White.

International Coal Co. sent in a letter suggesting a new road from the athletic field to Centre avenue. It stated that the present road is a menace and proposed re-locating the road to come out north of the United church. They asked the town to co-operate in the matter. The Works committee was authorized to discuss the proposal with Mr. A. F. Short, secretary of the company.

Residents of Second street in West Coleman sent in a petition asking to make repairs to the road and sidewalk. This will be acted on in due course.

The council approved the site for the proposed Canadian Legion club, which is immediately opposite the C.P.R. station on the west side of Central avenue. A letter from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was tabled till the next meeting, and the report from the secretary of the Union of Alberta Municipalities was ordered filed.

Relief matters were discussed and accounts for provision and supplies totaling $151.40 were passed, for goods purchased at local stores.

The following bills were presented for payment: Booth Memorial Home $12.00; Mothers' Allowance Dept $25.00; Coleman Journal $20.50; Union Alberta Municipalities $20.00; Coleman Light and Water Co. $212.75; International Coal and Coke Co. $9.30; McGillivray Creek Coal Co. $34.50; A. E. Knowles $11.75; The Motordrome $28.17; King's Printer of Alberta $4.00; Frank Aboussaff, (police uniform) $39.50; Groceries, etc. to relief recipients $151.40.

IMPORTANT NATIONAL ADVERTISERS IN THIS WEEK'S ISSUE

National advertisement appearing in this issue include General Motors, Dominion Government, Fisheries Department, Chartered Banks of Canada, Dominion Textile Company, The Brewing Companies of Alberta, Canadian Pacific Railway, Central Greyhound Busses, Life Insurance Underwriters, annual statement of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. They convey messages of interest and value to Journal readers.

Hockey Club Annual Meeting

Receives Financial Report and Discusses Plans for Next Season—Change in Rink Location Discussed

The annual meeting of Canadians hockey club held Wednesday evening in the council chamber was attended by about 40 people. President Harry Gardner reported on the club's activities, and Fred Guerdar read the financial statement, which will be printed in the next issue, giving complete information on receipts and expenditures.

The executive appointed were as follows: Geo. Kellock, honorary president; Harry Gardner, president; A. F. Short, vice-president; directors, A. Gentile, T. K. MacLean, G. Burchell, A. Balloch; Fred Guerdar, secretary. Wm. Gate was re-appointed business manager.

A committee was also appointed to bring in a report on the advisability of a proposal to move the rink to the former location in Flumerfelt park, where better ice conditions prevail, giving a longer season and eliminating much dust. Those appointed include Sam Moores, John Salvador, Albert F. Short, J. H. Boulton, R. Gillies, H. T. Halliwell.

Discussion on league arrangements for next season resulted in a motion that the executive act as conditions may warrant.

Total receipts were $5,265.64, and expenditures $5,241.46. There were two unpaid accounts of $85, for which arrangements will be made to meet same. (see next issue for complete statement.)

Better Lighting Needed For Streets

A movement is on foot to urge that the council make provision for improved street lighting. The comparison with the well-lighted business section of Blairmore makes Coleman look like a backwoods hamlet. It is believed that a greatly improved system could be installed involving very little lighting cost, and giving more than double the illumination than the present scattered dim lights. A glance down Centre avenue at night, particularly between the post-office and railroad tracks, where there isn't one light, and where the glare of the coke ovens is reflected over a string of box cars, gives one an impression of hell. The glare accentuates the darkness in that part of the town.

Its just the place where a lone wayfarer making his way to the depot might get a slug on the head.

Assault Case West Coleman Brings Fines

Complainant With Blood-Covered Face Staggered to Police Station Late Saturday Night

At 11 p.m. on Saturday night Matthew Kolena lodged a complaint with Constable Antle to the effect of having been assaulted and brutally manhandled. He was on his way home to West Coleman, and near the rock bluff John Tarcon, he alleges, hit him. Then Mike Tarcon hit him with a flashlight, stated Kolena. They knocked me down and kicked me. I could not tell who was kicking me. There were three men and they kicked me all around."

He gave as witnesses the names of John Simla, who was visiting here; Frank Narceek and Mike Bush, the latter two living in West Coleman.

Mike Balicky was also reported to have been drunk, but Kolena stated he did not know if Mike hit him. Two women were also among the party against whom the assault is alleged.

On Wednesday morning the charges heard before Magistrate Gresham resulted in Mike Tarcon being fined $10 and costs, and John Tarcon $20 and costs. Seven witnesses were examined, and the prosecution was handled by Constable W. Antle. Conflicting evidence was heard, some being given through an interpreter.

Proposed Military Unit For Coleman

The organization of a militia unit in Coleman has been mooted. It is believed that an artillery, engineers or infantry unit might be organized, which would provide an opportunity for physical training to young men. The nearest military unit is at Pincher Creek, where a battery of artillery is organized.

A number of young men here have signified their willingness to join if the proposal materializes. If sufficient local interest is shown, a petition to the officer commanding Military District No. 13, Calgary, would be circulated for signatures.

With a population such as Coleman has, it being among the largest towns in the province, it is believed the proposal would meet with a good response.

Universal Fingerprinting

For some reason or another, hard to explain, proposals that citizens submit themselves to voluntary fingerprinting as a means of subsequent identification in the event of emergency, have met with nothing but indifference, if not actual aversion on the part of the general public in this country.

This is somewhat surprising when one considers with what enthusiasm this proposal has been received in the United States and some other countries where numerous organizations have taken up the movement and have been successful in interesting the average citizen to a considerable degree.

Possibly the fact that hitherto fingerprinting has been associated solely with the identification of criminals may have something to do with the average Canadian's "old shoulder" attitude towards fingerprinting, for the general mill run of Canadian citizen is essentially law abiding and is apt to resent the slightest hint that he is not, and his mistaken viewpoint towards fingerprinting may account for his attitude.

On the other hand the diffidence with which suggestions and invitations for fingerprinting on wholesale but voluntary basis have been received in this country to date may be due to lack of knowledge of the benefits which such certain means of identification would confer generally, not only upon the individual but on the entire community. In all probability this is the principal reason for lack of interest in and response to this method of indexing for identification in Canada.

Has Many Values

A dozen ways in which universal fingerprinting would be of value to the individual citizen and the community in toto were set forth recently in a letter appearing in an Ontario daily newspaper by John Tenbroeck of Thorold, Ont., as follows:

"1. Elimination of election frauds; 2. Elimination of insurance frauds; 3. Minimization of immigration and emigration frauds; 4. Prevention of fraudulent evidence and repudiation of signature on deeds in legal proceedings; 5. Elimination of impersonations; 6. Confirmation of marriages and legitimacy rendered impossible; 7. Prevention of the substitution of a corpse for the body of another; 8. Elimination of dope peddling, insane persons and alcoholics;

"9. Regarded by the writer as very important; (a) Prevention of the physically unfit from obtaining an automobile license, (b) License carriers would be unable to fool police by giving a false name when caught violating the law, (c) Persons permanently deprived of driving privileges would be permanently ruled off the highway, (d) As a consequence of better operators an immediate decrease in our appalling death rate on the highways would result;

"10. As a result of decreased deaths and injuries on the highways there would be a corresponding drop in automobile insurance rates; 11. People suffering from loss of memory could be quickly identified, saving relatives money and perhaps a lifetime of worry and uncertainty; 12. Establishment of the true identity of the unknown dead, thereby saving the public the cost of burying them. The number of people buried in nameless graves was 46,000 last year, costing the public from $50 to $150 each for their burial."

Reduces Accident Toll

As Mr. Tenbroeck intimates there can be no question of the value voluntary fingerprinting could be made to exert in reducing the toll of accident and death on the highways, if it were made to serve some of the purposes he outlines in his item No. 9. The growing toll of loss of life and property from this cause is verified in recent statistics for last year and is already being reflected in automobile insurance rates.

On this ground and this alone, there should be general support for the movement for universal fingerprinting on the part of all who themselves make reasonable use of the automobile and the highways and who are constantly endangered by a reckless minority.

"Millions of men were fingerprinted during the World War, not as a criminal measure, but it was done for the protection of the men," said Mr. Tenbroeck, urging support for universal fingerprinting. "It provided," he reminds those who may have forgotten the fact, "an inviolable record through which identity could never be lost, through death, through injury, loss of memory or any other war incident."

"To-day in many countries, and especially in the United States of America, universal fingerprinting is progressing by leaps and bounds. Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Klansmen, Y.M.C.A., clubs etc., in many localities and States, where drivers are being put on for civil fingerprinting registrations, are solidly behind this move. The American Legion, women's clubs, church societies, etc., are working for it."

Police Approval Intimated

Indications are that support will be given the movement in Canada at the annual convention of police chief constables in the summer, as the agenda put forward by Mr. Tenbroeck are reprinted with approval in a recent issue of the Canadian Police Bulletin with a suggestion that "police chiefs should be taking every opportunity to impress the advantages of universal fingerprinting upon the public whom the proposal is designed to serve."

Crown Of Conquered Ruler

Has Been Taken From Ethiopia To Premier Mussolini

The jewel-encrusted crown of conquered Ethiopia has been presented to Premier Benito Mussolini. Briefly, what Laurence was to Arabia Slatin Pasha was to the Sudan, says Richard Viner in the Daily Sketch. He served four thrones—Queen Victoria, King Edward, George and the Emperor of Austria. He died in 1902, aged 75. On January 29, 1885, the Italian General Gordon was brought to Slatin Pasha as evidence of the fall of Khartoum. On January 26, 1938, the latter's daughter flew to the scene of her father's triumphs and imprisonment. Two a two, she is Baroness Winterstein-Gillespie, married to a brilliant young radiologist, half-Austrian, half-English. They live in London. Captive for 11 years Slatin Pasha returned after a romantic escape to become Inspector-General of the Sudan until the Great War. Then he returned to Austria. But for his services to Great Britain neither title nor decorations were taken away. Despite his being an enemy subject the War Office even continued to credit his pay.

Both were captured when the Ethiopian capital fell to the Italians in May, 1936. Mussolini ordered that the gold crown and scepter be placed on display in Rome's Colonial Museum. It Duce congratulated Graziani on his work in Ethiopia, especially for his victory on the southern front in the Ethiopian campaign.

The government announced that 136 Italian workers had died of illness or accident in Ethiopia from December, 1937, to February. The new deaths brought to 1,732 Italians officially reported dead there since Jan. 1, 1935.

Enemy Subject Of Great Britain Once Gave Services To Empire

The late Baron Sir Rudolf Carl Von Slatin Pasha was at one and the same time, an Austrian baron, an English knight, an Egyptian pasha. He died in 1902, aged 75. On January 29, 1885, the Italian General Gordon was brought to Slatin Pasha as evidence of the fall of Khartoum. New Markets For Vegetables

Perfect Type Of Dehydrator Has Greatly Improved Quality

New markets for Canadian grown vegetables may be opened up as a result of recent advances made in the technique of vegetable dehydration. The research committee of the Canadian Horticultural Council meeting in Ottawa reported that the perfection of a new type of dehydrator has resulted in a great improvement in the quality of the output and a substantial saving in cost.

Since most vegetables are composed largely of water, they are difficult to store for long periods and expensive to transport. Removal of much of this water by the new dehydration process removes these difficulties to a large extent and vegetables can be stored during the period of scarcity. Markets which are far removed from sources of supply, such as mining camps, may be supplied with dried vegetables which with the addition of water will be practically equal to the fresh article. There is also a possibility of considerable demand for these dried vegetables to be used for war purposes where the weight and bulk of the fresh products would greatly limit their use.

HE SUFFERED AGONY IN WET WEATHER

Rheumatism Attacked Limbs And Body

He had been bothered with rheumatism for years. The pain in his limbs was "unbearable." But all that is gone now thanks to Kruschen. Read this letter: "I suffered with rheumatism for years. I dreaded wet weather, for during such periods the pain was continuous and unbearable. To begin with, it was confined to my limbs, but in time I began to suffer as much agony in my body as I did in my limbs. When I began to take Kruschen Salts, I found it did me more good than all the other medicine I had taken put together. To-day, I have peace and freedom from pain, even during wet weather, and can heartily recommend Kruschen Salts to anyone who suffers from rheumatism."—N.M.

Rheumatic diseases are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients in Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

Friends For Forty Years

Former President Hoover Called On Ignace Paderewski In Geneva

In a four-story villa overlooking Lake Geneva there was a reunion of old friends when former President Hoover called upon Ignace Jan Paderewski, pianist, former Premier of Poland. Though ill and in retirement, Paderewski in his 76th year was as "brilliant as ever," Mr. Hoover reported. The former President, who has known Paderewski for 40 years, said that during his visit the two had "an enjoyable chat about old times and old friends." Both could recall the Versailles Peace Conference, which both attended.

During the World War Paderewski raised a force of 100,000 Poles to fight in France as a move for Polish freedom. He gave $2,000,000 of his fortune to the cause, and when the war ended hurried to Poland. He was elected as a national liberator. In 1919 he was head of the government, representing Poland at the Peace Conference. The French Premier Clemenceau found it hard to believe that the Polish statesman was also the famous pianist. Finally convinced, he said to Paderewski: "So now you are the premier of your country. What a come-down!" New York Times.

New Style In Uniforms

Tommy Atkins Will Not Have Any Buttons To Shout

Tommy Atkins' troubles are dwindling. His uniform will be streamlined, his buttons and puttees abolished and most important of all, his pack will be lightened.

The war office has not yet decided which of two experimental service outfits—embodying these improvements—will be adopted.

Two soldier "mannequins" paraded new outfits the other day. The uniforms are of the "overall" type with loose collar attached and with trousers of the ski-slack type. Tough denim is used instead of serge.

One soldier sported a smart outfit with a turkey forage cap, collar buttoned round the neck and trousers buckled at the ankles. The other wore a similar uniform with deer-stalker cap, loose peg top trousers worn with canvas gaiters.

In one uniform hidden buttons made of a composition which can't be shined are used. In the other are zip-fasteners.

Weight of packs had been cut to a minimum by the adoption of small hand cases for personal articles which are to be carried by motor transport when the soldier is on the march.

Butter And Cheese

Both Of These Products Have A High Food Value

No one knows in what order man discovered butter and cheese, the first manufactured foods. Ever since it was found that milk, which we know as cream, could be churned into butter and preserved by salting, this food has been highly considered. Probably first valued as a concentrated form of food, we now have become most particular in regard to the flavor attribute.

Our taste has been refined to such an extent that we demand delicate, bland flavor and are satisfied with only the best butter for our bread. Good bread and butter, nothing is better to our taste, and at the same time we have a combination of high food value.

Butter, like other fats, has a high caloric value and provides as well a liberal quantity of vitamin A which is not the case with other fats, unless it has been artificially added. The hardened vegetable fats and hard are shortening widely used in cookery, both as shortening and for frying. Weight for weight, they are a little higher in fuel value than butter.

A Matter Of Opinion

Two friends met in the street. One of them had had his arm broken in a motor accident and was carrying it in a sling.

"Say," asked the first, "it's too bad about your arm. How long will you have to carry it in a sling?"

The injured man shrugged. "There's a slight difference of opinion about that," he replied. "My doctor says two weeks—and my lawyer says twelve!"

Just Wants Some Fun

Big Game Hunter Not Looking For Adventure In Africa

Harry Snyder, of Mount Real, a big game hunter who doesn't believe in adventure, is going to lead an expedition into the wilds of Africa "simply for fun." Snyder will leave early in April on the first leg of the trip.

Every preparation for the comfort and safety of the expedition, which will include Col. A. J. MacNab, late of the United States army; Jim Hunter, Kenya sportsman; and George Goodwin, assistant curator of the New York Museum of Natural History, has been made in advance.

"Adventure," Snyder said, "is the thing which results from lack of preparation. I've had plenty of adventures. To my mind the fellow who just goes out hoping to miss death by an inch is just a nut."

Though the party hopes to get in some real elephant shooting, most of it will be done with 13 cameras being taken to picture Africa's animal life.

To take the taste of adventure out of the coming hunting trip, the expedition has had men out for two months clearing the trail the party will follow through Eastern-Central Africa. Two trucks and two automobiles have been built specially for high clearance necessary on such trails.

Eight-Day Garden Party

Victoria Sets Dates For Show With New Contests

Snowdrops are up, violets in blossom and with daffodils in flower people in Victoria are all of a dither about the spring garden party. Which, believe it or not, lasts eight days and is unique on the Pacific coast. Elsewhere, too, for the matter of that.

With the dates set for May 4 to 11 inclusive, a very nice selected committee is currying Victoria's list of garden.

In addition to well-known estates such as those belonging to Lady Barnard at Esquimalt, Mrs. W. C. Nichol, Senator and Mrs. G. H. Barnard, Mrs. Biggar-St. Wilson, all sorts of garden enthusiasts have gone to Victoria to live, whose gardens, up-to-date, their owners considered, weren't quite up to snuff, and at least not good enough to go into a spring garden showing.

Now they are, so visitors will have more designs, plants and theories to argue about. Part of fun of garden week being, apparently, not only admiration, but argument.

Lost Mining Stocks

Located In Mattress Purchased At Auction Sale

E. J. Preacott, Great War pensioner, bought a mattress at an auction sale. As he unloaded the mattress at his modest bungalow home in Calgary an envelope dropped to the ground.

"I was going to give it to my little girl to play with, then I saw it contained stocks of some kind," he said. The envelope contained mining shares worth $300.

He immediately notified police and the owner, Mrs. C. E. Kilner, of Calgary, was found. The stocks were returned to her two hours before she boarded a train en route to England.

WORKS IN 2 WAYS ON DISCOMFORT OF COLDS

1. Take 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore from the cold, crush 2 "ASPIRIN" tablets and mix with warm water. Gargle twice. This soothes inflamed throat almost instantly.

No family need neglect even minor colds.

Here is what to do: Take two "Aspirin" tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The "Aspirin" method of relieving colds is the way many doctors approve. You take "Aspirin" for colds—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor. "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trademark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Opinion Of Noted Artist

Kathleen Shackleton Says Canada Has Everything She Wants

"Canada has everything, it is the only country for me," said Miss Kathleen Shackleton, noted artist and sister of the late Sir Ernest Shackleton, in an interview at Vancouver.

"In the older cities Canada has culture and sophistication, in the northern areas pioneer life, and vast unexplored places. In the newer regions there is simplicity and sincerity."

"I would rather live here than anywhere. London may be a fascinating playground for the tourist, but to me it is just a crowded center of heads and brains. I am tired of them. I like to live closer to the earth, closer to people of the pioneer type," she said.

During the past few months, Miss Shackleton has made portrait sketches of northern and native types for the Hudson's Bay Company's headquarters in London.

Have Economic Value

Birds Are Also Cheerful Things To Have Around Neighborhood

Birds have an economic value in eating harmful insects and weed seeds. They have an ethical value in cheering our days with their songs and flash of color. They may be induced to take up their abode in our own yards if we offer them a residence, rent free. Encourage your boys to construct one or more of these bird dwellings in their spare hours. This will be good for both boys and birds.

Summer birds, which do not require houses, may be lured to our neighborhoods by putting out bits of feathers, wool and twine in the nest-building season.

Independence Of Lithuania Guaranteed — Polish Troops Parade

Warsaw. — Polish troops Sunday paraded peacefully and jubilantly at Wilno, where Saturday they were congratulated for what looked like was with Lithuania.

Timid cheers were accorded the troops who swung through the streets in celebration of Lithuania's capitulation to Polish demands for settlement of their 18-year-old differences.

In Warsaw many Jews fell under the lists of extreme nationalists who vented their disappointment over what they called too lenient treatment of Lithuania by Poland. The rioting failed to reach proportions of Saturday when two persons were killed and more than 100 injured.

Police, strengthened by reinforcements from provincial cities, acted quickly to curb the rioters.

President Ignace Moscicki, in an address at a triumphant moment in Polish history, condemned the demonstration as "brutal" and warned repeated disorders might compel Poland to accept totalitarianism to maintain discipline.

The excited crowds had built up a fear fervor during the hours Lithuania considered the ultimatum. Jews apparently unconsciously provided the escape for accumulated steam that victory without war failed to provide.

Poland was satisfied by Lithuania's surrender. Nothing less, she had held, could be acceptable to end the crisis created when a Polish guard was killed March 11 on the heavily-armed frontier.

Poland guaranteed Lithuania's independence but the Polish war machine that had been mobilized near the frontier remained. The government foresaw there might be difficulty in the negotiations after nearly two decades of enmity despite assurances Lithuanian national pride would not be injured.

"Lithuania has a right to independence and, in the name of the Polish government, I declare Poland will respect this right," declared Col. Joseph Beck, foreign minister.

B. C. Asks For The Return Of Income Tax Field To Provinces

Victoria, B.C. — If the income tax field were turned back exclusively to the provinces, as British Columbia is urging, the finding of an alternative source for the $100,000,000 now collected by the Dominion in income taxes would be a problem for the Dominion to solve, Senator J. W. Farris asserted before the Rowell commission.

British Columbia was being "held white" paying income tax far out of proportion to its means and out of proportion to other provinces, Senator Farris claimed in presenting the British Columbia government's case for relief. Complete control of income taxes by the province was the basic solution, he contended.

"Our difficulty is that we can't take $100,000,000 from the Dominion without bankrupting it and with it would go the credit of the provinces," Chairman N. W. Rowell commented.

"The Dominion has created this commission," said Senator Farris. "No, the conditions that exist have created it—the war and its aftermath," Mr. Rowell said.

Senator Farris insisted the providing of an alternative was not a responsibility of the province since the necessity did not "arise from provincial action but from Dominion invasion of the income tax field."

"Because it would cost the Dominion $100,000,000 to solve the ques-

Democracies Are Pitted

Hitter Says They Do Not Understand The Motives Of Germany

Berlin. — Reichsfuehrer Hitler held up Austria's fate as an implied warning to Czechoslovakia.

He asked the reichstag at its far-flung meeting for "another four years that I may complete the tasks ahead in the greater Reich."

Before Hitler began his 35-minute speech, Field Marshal Herman Goering, as president of the reichstag, announced its dissolution and called legislative elections for the new parliament for April 10.

The fuhrer, as he completed his address, announced all Germany—not only Austria—would vote in the plebiscite on union of Austria and Germany at the same time. A plebiscite April 10 in Austria already had been scheduled.

The new reichstag will be the first representing the greater Germany. Hitler thanked Premier Mussolini again for his approval of the Austrian conquest and plebiscite.

"Italy's frontiers remain for us inviolate. Behind this word stands the German nation."

He pitted "the democracies" because they did not understand his move into Germany's southern neighbor, a state he said was "based upon a stark violation of the right of self-determination of 65,000,000 people of German nationality."

Justifying his swift seizure of Austria, he said his decision to march to the last of his birth was dictated by the realization that otherwise bloody civil war would break out.

"I was determined to spare Austria the fate of Spain," he declared. "Von Schuschnigg can thank God I acted for my decision saved him and 10,000 others their lives."

No Budget Before Easter

Ottawa. — The budget will not be presented to the house before the Easter adjournment, Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, told Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader. He promised to let the house know the date as far in advance as possible.

The Dominion had control of the whole situation, of the banks, credit and the Bank of Canada, he said. "It can't make money," Mr. Rowell suggested.

"I don't know," Senator Farris said. "It's amazing what other countries are doing in the world. If both are unable to meet their obligations, then something has to give."

"We're on a fixed track, defined by the British North America Act but all the other alternatives lie in the hands of the Dominion parliament, so it must be from there that the ultimate solution must come."

Senator Farris pressed his contention that the province had an "unassailable position" for control of all income taxes. His stress of that submission as the major feature of the provincial presentation was marked by periodic exchanges of a restrained but intense nature with the chairman.

British Columbia's only possible source of increased revenue was by increasing its income tax, which was impossible as long as the Dominion stayed in the field. If it could do that, the province would take care of its own financial position.

Buffalo Tongue Sandwiches Served At Parliament Buildings In Ottawa

Ottawa. — Buffalo tongue sandwiches have reached the parliament buildings. The idea came out of the west, and prairie members have been regaling eastern members with the conviction these were the last word in sandwiches. Now the easterners are prepared to admit the western members were right.

Each year Senator A. D. McLean, of Vancouver, holds a reception for senators, members of parliament and the press gallery. This reception was held, and buffalo tongue sandwiches were given an auspicious introduction. In fact, the guests at the reception were emphatic that this was the greatest innovation for the benefit of those who know good food when they eat it since the dinner tant when it was first discovered that ham co-operated well with eggs.

Relief Costs

Federal Government Asked To Assume Fifty Per Cent.

Ottawa. — Conflicting views of east and west on what the federal government should be asked to do in taking unemployment relief costs of municipalities were finally reconciled in the resolution committee of the conference of Canadian mayors and municipalities.

Mayor George Miller, of Vancouver, chairman of the committee, offered a resolution asking the Dominion government, pending its assumption of full responsibility, to assume 50 per cent. of the costs of unemployment relief, including medical assistance and hospitalization, conditioned on the provinces assuming at least 40 per cent. of the costs.

Leaving 10 per cent. to the municipalities plus local administration costs.

Under the present arrangement the Dominion makes lump-sum contributions to the provinces as grants in aid for unemployment relief. The grants are made in monthly instalments and the Dominion assumes 40 per cent. of the relief cost. The remaining 60 per cent. of the cost is met by the provinces and the municipalities with the contribution ratio varying in different areas.

Dr. R. H. Coates, Dominion statistician, told the conference of efforts the Dominion is making towards achieving uniformity in municipal statistics so that they will be on a comparable basis.

Concerts To Be Broadcast

C.B.C. Completes Arrangements With Canadian Symphony Orchestra

Ottawa. — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced it had completed arrangements with two of the nation's most widely-known symphony orchestras to broadcast weekly over its national network and was negotiating with others.

The corporation said that from May 5 to Oct. 13 it would carry a weekly one-hour broadcast by the Toronto Promenade Symphony orchestra under direction of Reginald Stewart. The concerts will be sent to the National Broadcasting Company in the United States as an exchange feature.

Starting Oct. 23, the corporation said, the CBC will start a broadcast series of 20 concerts by the Toronto Symphony orchestra under direction of Sir Ernest MacMillan.

The corporation has proposed to the Vancouver Symphony orchestra that it broadcast parts of its Sunday afternoon concerts from Stanley park.

Some Speculation On Attitude of Dominions In The Event Of War

London. What would be the attitude of the dominions in a time of crisis, as is customary in a time of crisis, is keeping the dominions informed of developments. Reports have been published here that the dominions—none specified individually by name—are not prepared to back up British intervention in central Europe but are prepared to aid Britain should she be attacked.

That question is the subject of speculation in Fleet street while the man in the street, concerned over dramatic events of the past week, is equally curious to know the answer.

The United Kingdom government, as is customary in a time of crisis, is keeping the dominions informed of developments. Reports have been published here that the dominions—none specified individually by name—are not prepared to back up British intervention in central Europe but are prepared to aid Britain should she be attacked.

Informed sources, however, say the attitude of the dominions to any pledge of aid to Czechoslovakia has not been ascertained.

Canada has not told the British government what stand she will take should Britain undertake to support Czechoslovakia. It was recalled the government regularly advises the dominions of developments abroad and that the dominions are not obliged to state their attitude unless they wish to do so.

Articles by the political correspondents of The Daily Mail and Daily Express, independent newspapers say the dominions are prepared to aid Britain if she were attacked but are not willing to support a policy of commitments in central Europe.

The attitude of the various sections of the empire, it is felt here, has not changed since last year's imperial conference.

At that conference no attempt was made to formulate commitments, which in any event could not be organization rumors—some run by going so far as to make him the next prime minister—has long been a vigorous right-wing critic of both the Baldwin and Chamberlain governments. He supports the League of Nations.

Anthony Eden, also mentioned as a possible successor to the cabinet, is staying in the south of France and has not expressed any opinion for publication on the present European crisis. Earl Baldwin is equally silent.

The former prime minister, David Lloyd George, however, arrived in Paris to state that his opinion of Mr. Chamberlain's government is "unimpaired."

In addition to Mr. Horre-Belisha and Mr. MacDonald, those who have become disaffected are said to be Earl de la Warr, lord privy seal; William Ormsby-Gore, colonial secretary; Walter Elliot, secretary for Scotland; Oliver Stanley, president of the board of trade; W. S. Morrison, agriculture; and Earl Winterton, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Government quarters dismissed the reports in regard to Earl Baldwin and Mr. Churchill as absurd.

Should dissension rumors be borne out, and a settlement not found, an internal crisis would be piled on a nation already deeply concerned over the European situation.

The dissidents were reported to have demanded of Mr. Chamberlain: 1. A clear-cut pledge of aid in support of Czechoslovakia should she be attacked.

2. A firmer policy in the Spanish civil war to prevent Italy and Germany from dominating the peninsula.

A general election was considered a certainty should the cabinet resign. In the event of Mr. Horre-Belisha leaving the cabinet with one or more of his colleagues political authorities said the resignation of the entire cabinet would be inevitable. They pointed to the key position held by the war secretary in the government's defence plans.

Mr. Horre-Belisha is said to feel the present non-intervention policy is leaving Spain at the mercy of Italy and Germany and endangering the security of Gibraltar.

He is believed to have the support of the imperial general staff, the chief of which is General Viscount Gort, V.C., whom Mr. Horre-Belisha prompted over the heads of more than 20 senior generals in the recent shakeup.

Suicide Wave

Many Deaths Of Prominent People Reported In Vienna

Vienna. — Newspapers reported a wave of suicides and arrests among prominent Viennese.

In addition to the deaths of the former vice-chancellor, Mayor Emil Fey, his wife and son, the newspaper Telegram stated Friedrich Reitling, head of the Jenbacher Steel Works, committed suicide with his daughter.

and Prof. Beyer, 68-year-old Innsbruck doctor, and his daughter killed themselves with drugs.

Two renowned Austrian doctors were reported in custody. They were Professor Otto Loewi, Nobel prize winner in medicine, and Dr. Edmund Neumann, noted eye, ear and throat specialist, who last year treated the Duke of Windsor. Dr. Neumann, a Jew, many months ago was said to have refused to treat Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

A Vienna despatch to the Paris Sot stated Sigmund Freud, world-famous Jewish psychologist, was reported under arrest. Now 82, the father of psycho-analysis has been in ill health for some time.

Another despatch to the Paris Excelsior stated that Gottfried Kinkwald, noted Jewish economist and financial adviser to the government, was found dead at his home.

Baron Leopold de Rothschild, head of the Vienna branch of the famed banking family and several times host to the Duke of Windsor, was among those arrested.

Clear Cut Statement On Foreign Policy Desired In Britain

London. — Authoritative sources stated Prime Minister Chamberlain will make a statement in the House of Commons that will clarify the government's foreign policy stand and allay rumors of a revolt in its ranks.

Reports of a cabinet cleavage, with a small group pressing for an immediate, clear-cut statement on foreign policy persisted. But efforts to substantiate these reports met with a barrage of official denials.

Outwardly, at any rate, all was quiet in Downing street.

The basis of cleavage—if cleavage exists in Mr. Chamberlain's unwillingness to issue a hasty declaration of policy.

A section of the cabinet is reported pressing for a prompt statement on what Britain will and will not do under certain circumstances on the continent, particularly in regard to Czechoslovakia and Spain.

This section—said to be led by War Minister Horre-Belisha and Dominions Secretary Malcolm MacDonald—said to be dissatisfied with the premier's "delaying tactics."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE UNOFFICIAL count in the Federal by-election in East Edmonton shows that the Social Credit candidate received 552 less votes than the Liberal and Conservative combined vote. Failure of these parties to agree on a unity candidate caused the defeat of both. Social Credit is represented by a minority vote as a result. Premier Aberhart promised to dance a jig if his candidate won. This would be amusing as an act at the next broadcast of the Prophetic Bible Institute. Then listeners-in might share in the fun, as they have done with other vaudeville stunts during the pleasant Sunday afternoon broadcasts.

TO CLIMAX the joy of Social Credit supporters in celebrating the election of their candidate, Joe Unwin's release from Fort Saskatchewan gaol was timed most appropriately. It was not known which side would win and the release was ordered so that it would not influence the result, neither could it be said it was influenced by the result of the election. Nobody will begrudge Unwin his triumphal participation in the torchlight parade, but undoubtedly the lesson will have been learned that laws cannot be flouted even by parliamentarians and his sentence will have a salutary effect on those in power who would abuse it by pillorying those who disagree with their policies.

COMMUNISTS declared themselves 100 per cent. for the Social Credit candidate, circulating literature in his support. In the 1935 general election, in a six-candidates contest in East Edmonton, they polled only 671 votes. Realizing that they could not elect a candidate of their own choice, they evidently decided to retain a shred of power by lining up with Social Creditors, headed by Jan Lakeman, Alberta chairman of the Communist Party of Canada. Verily, politics make strange bedfellows. Aberhart of the Bible Institute and Lakeman of the atheistic Communist party! An unholy alliance, to be sure!

CONVERSATIONS with representatives of wholesale houses reveal the fact that though Coleman has the biggest pay-roll of the Pass towns, granting of credit has to be more closely watched than in those towns not receiving anything like the payrolls this town has. It indicates a slackness in business which is the fault of the merchants as well as the customers. Some people have been allowed to accumulate bills for necessities, possibly in times of stress, when credit was of great help, but they have not appreciated it, otherwise unpaid bills would not be so neglected. There are even some retailers whose credit has been so badly affected by loose methods of carrying on business that they too are in difficulties. A tightening up all round between merchants and customers is imperative or there will be some business houses assigning for the benefit of creditors. Some people will not pay attention to a courteous reminder of their indebtedness. Such people deserve no further consideration, and should be black-listed as credit risks.

THE WAY of the transgressor is hard. In times of depression some who cannot or will not secure employment try by methods not within the law to raise money. An instance of this was noted in the police court this week. One man of Oriental birth charged with operating a gaming house is a resident of long standing, has paid several thousands of dollars in taxes on his property, and generally has been an unobtrusive citizen. With age creeping on, and increasing inability to earn a living, he operated a lottery, on a small scale, among his acquaintances around town. This method of conduct is no worse than that of the sweepstakes by which Canada sends large sums to other countries, or of raffles to raise money.

BUT OPERATING a gambling house is more serious. Young men, and older ones, spend the hours till dawn in playing for money. Playing with the sole object of winning leads to viciousness and lawlessness, causing many a victim to fall for temptation which he otherwise might withstand. Gambling in certain places has been going on with the knowledge of the police, but in order to substantiate charges corroborative evidence must be obtained and this is usually done by means of raids and catching the gamblers with all the evidence. Cards used for gambling might well be termed the devil's playthings, but many a pleasant hour of recreation is enjoyed, particularly by the ladies, in playing bridge. Like all forms of amusement or recreation, card-playing can be abused till it becomes a vice.

AMALGAMATION of Canada's railways appears to be the only solution for the elimination of deficits on the Canadian National which if continued would bankrupt the nation. An expensive railroad to the Hudson's Bay and the maintenance of a port from which only three or four ships take grain in a year is something that could only happen under a government. Private enterprise would never have countenanced such extravagance, much of which has proved to be almost useless.

Banks and Goodwill

In this issue appears an announcement by the chartered banks of Canada. It is interesting even to those who may not have done business with a bank. If all were to follow the example of the business-like methods of banking service, a lot of annoyance would be saved.

Banks extend credit to those whose characters and integrity warrant it. In this connection a local instance was related of a prospective buyer who wished to purchase from a store. As the article required ran into a pretty fair amount, to be purchased on the instalment plan, it was suggested that a loan be secured at the bank. "Oh no!" said the customer, "the bank makes you pay back what you have borrowed." Evidently he was under the impression he did not have to keep his promise with the storekeeper as faithfully as with the bank.

It is these distorted or mistaken ideas on credit dealing that cause difficulties. If they are worthy of a loan, they should not hesitate to talk it over with their local bank manager, who would advise them to their own advantage, to go after it in a legitimate business-like way. If the proposition submitted is not worthy of a loan, then probably it would be a kindness, in the long run, that a person should be so advised. Credit is that intangible asset which each individual has the power to secure, but he must prove himself worthy of it.

Cheap Sports—Fined Court Costs

Joe Trotz, aged about 22, was fined the costs of the court by Magistrate Gresham for using obscene language and striking Albert Sapeta, proprietor of the Grand Union pool room, on March 12. Sapeta stated that Trotz and three companions had been playing pool for some time, and when he asked them to pay, Trotz became abusive, and asked him to charge it. As a result he laid a charge.

How Are Life Insurance Funds Invested?

Answer.—In government and municipal bonds and debentures, first mortgages and other securities.

Question.—What do these investments accomplish?

Answer.—They help to finance the undertakings of our Federal and Provincial Governments—our municipalities—our industries and public utilities. They also aid in building new homes and schools—and in improving farms.

Q.—What is the total amount of Life Insurance funds invested in Canada?

A.—More than Two Billion Dollars.

Q.—What does this sum represent?

A.—It represents the accumulated savings of more than 3,500,000 Canadian men and women.

Q.—How do I benefit from these investments?

A.—Through good roads, new schools and local improvements made by your own municipalities, which, in turn, create employment.

Q.—What is the guarantee back of these invested funds?

A.—The security of the individual loans, in addition to the integrity of the borrowers—whether governments, corporations, or individuals.

Q.—Have the Life Insurance companies of Canada kept faith with their policyholders?

A.—Yes. In good times and bad, they have fulfilled every guarantee 100 cents on the dollar.

This is the fourth of a series of messages sponsored by Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada. The fifth, to appear in two weeks' time, will discuss Life Insurance investments in Alberta.

Magog Beats the Weatherman

SOME DAY the agricultural scientists may find a way to beat The Weatherman and assure grain crops from the risk of failure. We hope that happy condition of affairs will arrive in our time.

MEANWHILE, let us consider the case of Magog, a little town in the Province of Quebec. It has beaten The Weatherman. The chief industry of Magog is the works of Dominion Textile Company Limited. There are risks in the cotton textile industry, but The Weatherman does not loom large as one of them. The people of Magog are reasonably certain of employment whether there is too much rain or no rain; and their employment is a year 'round matter—Winter as well as Summer.

IT IS WELL for Canadians as a nation that all Canadians are not at the mercy of The Weatherman. Every industry has its risks, but fortunately they are not the same risks in every industry. Farming, our most important enterprise, needs the balancing quality of manufacturing to maintain a national structure that can withstand hard knocks.

DOMINION TEXTILE COMPANY LIMITED, a wholly Canadian company, has been manufacturing cotton textile goods in the Province of Quebec since the early years of this century. It finds employment for 7,000 people who are annually paid $5,000,000.

GULF BETWEEN CHRISTIANITY AND COMMUNISM SO WIDE IT CAN NEVER BE BRIDGED

Rev. Dr. Harold Young, Member of Famous Muskoka House Party Says No Grounds for Belief That Christianity and Communism Have Much in Common.

"I am convinced more than ever after living and talking with Tim Buck for five days, that a great gulf exists between Communism and Christian Socialism, a gulf that can never be crossed," Rev. Dr. Harold Young, pastor of St. Paul's Avenue Road United Church, Toronto, told members of Bowmanville Men's Canadian Club during the course of an impressive address on Monday night at the Balmoral Hotel.

Dr. Young was one of a group of prominent people who spent nearly a week on Fairhaven Island, Muskoka, owned by Rev. Dr. Crossley Hunter, of Hamilton. Others in the party included Dr. Hunter, Rabbi Eisenrath, Tim Buck, secretary of the Communist Party, a member of parliament, a financier, a representative of the youth movement, a blind man, a college professor, an unemployed man, and a paroled convict.

The meeting really had its origin in India where the noted missionary Dr. Stanley Jones had experienced such gatherings, and had described them on the occasion of his visit to Canada last February. Various men from various phases of India's complex life had lived together to learn what each believed and stood for.

And as a result of this Dr. Crossley Hunter organized this Ontario version of such a gathering. It was held in mid-June on Fairhaven Island and it was a mixed and motley company.

Despite what the daily newspapers had said about the gathering, it was held for the one purpose of meeting and learning the other fellow's viewpoint, Dr. Young said. We spent the mornings in earnest discussion, the afternoon in group discussion, and the evenings in full discussion, while well into the early hours of the morning these discussions were carried on in the privacy of one's own room.

The gathering had everybody guessing. One paper said it was the opening gun in a big communistic campaign which had been organized and was being directed by Stalin himself from Moscow. The most completely silly story however, the speaker said, was that which appeared in the Globe and Mail which stated that the meeting was to form a new political party for the Ontario field.

The gathering held no relationship to politics. It was simply an adventure in understanding, and what is more to me, Dr. Young added, it was the most illuminating experience of my whole life.

The speaker went on to tell of some of the people with whom he came in contact, but the major portion was given over to a discussion of Tim Buck and his theories. Dr. Young became particularly friendly to Tim Buck. He was gifted, able, and one of the most likeable men I have ever come across, he said. I am not a communist, but I must pay my tribute of respect for this man and his gifts of intelligence. I would say he has more intelligence than 999 out of every 1000. He is sincere, has a terrific persistence, and believes he has a real solution to the problems of the day. He is earnest, able, and is to be trusted.

The more I talked with him, Dr. Young related, the more I became convinced that there was a gulf between Christianity and Communism that could never be bridged. There are some ministers in the United Church who believe there is little difference between Christianity and Communism, but there is. There is a tremendous gulf, a three fold gulf.

The first difference is in the way that change shall be brought about. Communism believes in force and violence in the extreme. Mr. Buck does not believe it possible to bring about the changes he wants by legal means, and expects that only force can bring them about.

Secondly, the difference in the outlook. Communism is distinctly atheistic. They believe that the ultimate in this world is that a man shall have enough to eat, drink and clothe himself. Christianity believes life has something more important than this.

Thirdly, the communist believes there is no larger necessity than the material welfare of human life. Buck believes there is no other dynamic of life required. Hence the split incompatibly with religion, Dr. Young said. They see no meaning in Christ's enquiry "What profiteth it a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

While I admire Mr. Buck for his sincerity, and as a man, I came home from that conference more than ever convinced that the gulf between Christianity and Communism can never be crossed.

The speaker went on to tell of the vicissitudes through which Joe Hill, Irish born Canadian leader of the Single Unemployed Association, had passed in the years of depression. This man was another of the party, and the speaker said after hearing his tale he would not be surprised if the man became a communist.

I do believe, Dr. Young continued, that by the grace of God we can build a better order of things than exists today. I believe it can be done within the framework of capitalism. It has been done elsewhere, with countries not as well blessed as we with natural resources. We should send our experts and our statesmen to Sweden, where this better order is established and under the capitalistic system. With our resources we could do something that would be a pattern to the whole world, Dr. Young said.

None of us who attended that conference last summer will be quite the same again, he added. It was an unforgettable experience, and it will help us see through the eyes of others the problems that beset us all. In that kind of thing lies the hope for us all in the days that are to come, Dr. Young said in conclusion.

WE OWE YOU MONEY

Payable in CASH—ON DEMAND

If yours is one of the 4,740,000 accounts in which people have dollars on deposit in Canada's chartered banks, your bank owes you money.

That money does not belong to The People, the government, the nation, or to your neighbour. It is YOURS.

If you are a savings depositor, the bank, in addition to providing safety, pays you interest on YOUR MONEY just as a borrower pays interest to the bank, for

WHAT IS A BANK?—It is an institution organized to receive deposits and to make loans; that is the mechanical description. But it is a much more human place than that; it means much more to YOU.

Your bank is a place where you can deposit money for your self and your family, with every assurance that you can get it back whenever you call for it—in full and with interest.

The bank's books show your deposit as a sum of money it owes to you—must pay to you when you ask for it—a liability of the bank.

Your bank is, too, a place where persons worthy of credit may borrow for business or other legitimate purposes.

The borrower must be worthy. By worthy, we mean that because of his record for honesty and integrity, his business ability, and the things he owns, he can be counted on with reasonable certainty to be willing and able to repay. We MUST know that he is a "good risk", for we MUST keep YOUR deposit and those of all other depositors SAFE, against the day you call for what WE OWE YOU.

As a depositor, you are our creditor; we have to be prepared to pay you in full. Therefore we must do our utmost to collect in full as much as we loan, plus our costs of operation.

We pay interest for deposits and charge interest on loans. You will be surprised when we tell you the range of our costs, the smallness of our margin of profit.

Bank deposits are the money of certain people — not "The People". There is the substance of Canadian banking as plain as a pikestaff. You have known it for a long time; you can tell others know just where money is it they speak of, when they talk about the community's claim to bank deposits.

More than 4,700,000 people in Canada—equal to more than 42 per cent of Canada's population—have "money in the bank"—deposits lodged with Canada's chartered banks. Of those no fewer than 4,084,000 are savings depositors receiving interest on their money. Canada's chartered banks have paid over $397,000,000 in interest on deposits in the last ten fiscal years.

Savings of the Canadian people, deposited in the chartered banks, now total nearly $1,584,000,000—the average savings deposit being $387.

There are about 660,000 current accounts of individuals and corporations totalling $679,000,000 in Canada's chartered banks. It takes the equivalent of nearly three average savings accounts to make one dollar of $1,000.

And it takes the net profits, over and above the costs of doing business, on scores of loans of $1,000 each for a year, to make up the loss of one single loan of $1,000.

This shows what care the banks must take in lending, if the depositor's funds are to be safeguarded, for the net profits of banks are less than one-half of one per cent. on their total assets.

Without deposits a bank could not long continue in business. YOUR MONEY remains on deposit in the bank ONLY AT YOUR WILL, and if you think the bank is lending recklessly, you will draw it out.

The bank must always keep itself in a position to pay you your deposit, in full, in cash, whenever you choose to call for it.

Canada's chartered banks realize that the establishing of your home, the happiness of your family, the education of your sons and daughters, their start in life, their progress in business, your provisions for a rainy day, your peace of mind in the twilight of life, may depend largely upon this money—money you have deposited in a bank—money YOUR BANK OWES TO YOU.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

METROPOLITAN LIFE CONTINUES PROGRESS IN 1937

Increased Insurance in Force
Feature of 71st Annual Statement.

OTTAWA, March 14th. — Reporting payments to policyholders and beneficiaries of almost $226,000,000 during 1937, an average of $4,833.28 a minute for each business day, the 71st annual statement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company released today presents an informative picture of the service of a life insurance company under the heading of "The Business Side of the Ledger — and the Human Side." There was scarcely a catastrophe in the country which took human lives during 1937 where funds provided by Metropolitan policies did not help to lighten the burden for afflicted families. The report also comments on the value of new investments made by the company in various communities. These investments helped to create a demand for goods, aided realty values, gave employment, and otherwise advanced local social and economic interests. The company, which is a mutual organization, ended the year with the largest amount of policies and the greatest amount of life insurance ever in force in any company — $2,284,603,688. These policies, which included almost two million lives insured under group life contracts, were owned by approximately 29,000,000 persons in Canada and the United States, or two persons out of every nine in the populations of the two countries.

HARRY D. WRIGHT
Second Vice-President and Manager for Canada, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, who reports a substantial gain in Canadian business.

"The Canadian business of the company shows a gain of $61,083,507 in life insurance in force at the end of the year, which was $1,126,780,908," commented Second Vice-President Harry D. Wright, Manager for Canada. He also stated that investments of Metropolitan in the Dominion now total $263,150,351. Other features of the company's business in Canada referred to by Mr. Wright included payments to Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries during the year of $29,819,475; distribution of 4,225,081 publications on health; and continuation of the company's health and welfare programme in the course of which nurses made 363,644 visits in ministering to policyholders insured under Industrial, Intermediate and Group contracts. "The improvement shown here during 1937 in the various departments of our company reflect favorable business and industrial conditions in Canada," stated Mr. Wright.

Referring to the company's total business in Canada and the United States, the year's report shows that payments to policyholders amounted to more than half a billion dollars for the sixth successive year, the amount for 1937 being $226,000,000. These payments were made, to policyholders in the Ordinary department, including Group, $278,185,011; to Industrial policyholders $284,200,145 and to accident and health policyholders $18,421,115. Dividends to policyholders payable in 1938 will total more than one hundred million dollars.

The sum of $225,019,055 was added in 1937 to the funds held by the company for the benefit of policyholders, bringing assets of the company to $4,719,720,827 as at December 31st, 1937. The surplus and general voluntary reserves, which serve as a cushion against unforeseen contingencies, are now $311,504,050.

Outstanding in the report was the gain in total life insurance in force, $1,278,117,914, the largest increase since 1929. Total Ordinary in force at the end of 1937 was $1,400,690,228 or 51% of the company's business; the Industrial total was $7,511,587,467 or 33%; and the Group total was $3,671,865,512 or 16%. The company also had accident and health insurance in force carrying a principal sum benefit of $1,510,264,810 and weekly indemnity of $19,000,024. All of these figures are among the high spots in Metropolitan history.

A CHURCH MEETING

The writer attended a church committee meeting—at least it was to have been. It had been postponed one week in the expectation that there would be present all members of the committee. We arrived, shortly after the prescribed time, 7.30 p.m. The only one present was the minister. We chatted for awhile and in about fifteen minutes another member arrived. No other member appeared or the half dozen or more who had promised to attend.

So, the momentous question of raising money to pay the obligation which the congregation had assumed is still a burning problem. It is the old, old story. When you get "badly in the hole" it is difficult to struggle out, and many take the line of least resistance, leaving it to those with more energy and a deeper sense of responsibility than they possess to face the music.

The faithful few in any church, and the women, carry on. In different people exclaim when approached for church support: "Oh, I don't bother about church." They ignore the fact that there were no churches, their children would be without religious instruction, for there are very few homes where time is taken to read the Bible. And for marriages and funerals, a church is a nice convenient place to many who otherwise never step across its threshold.—Anonymous.

Nelson Boy Wins Prize In Empire Competition

Sidney Horawill, of Nelson, winner of the Lord Willingdon prize in the Empire essay competition held in connection with the Coronation last May, is a nephew of Rev. A.S. Partington, of Coleman. He is 19 years old, and was one of the British Columbia boys selected to represent that province, with representatives from other Canadian provinces, at the Coronation. He is a keen athlete, and was on the team which was in the junior hockey play-offs. His essay was one of over 500 entries which won a prize. The competition was open to the whole British empire, and prizes were given by eminent men. His essay was based on former Premier Baldwin's message to youth, delivered on his retirement from the premiership.

The Metropolitan is a mutual organization. Its assets are held for the benefit of its policyholders, and any distributable surplus is returned to its policyholders in the form of dividends.

The Human Side — for 1937

IF WE WERE to let the figures to the left describe the Metropolitan's activities last year, the story would be far from complete — for there is a HUMAN side of the ledger, too.

Policyholders and beneficiaries received from Metropolitan in 1937 almost $526,000,000 — much of it in an hour of genuine need.

Death claims were paid on 6,107 policies in force less than three months, and on 18,562 policies in force less than one year — dramatic proof of the value of life insurance.

One could scarcely name a catastrophe which took human lives, in the United States or Canada, where funds provided by Metropolitan policies had not helped lighten the burden for afflicted families.

Each day, visiting nurses representing the Metropolitan ministered to persons insured under Industrial, Intermediate, and Group policies who were in need of skilled care. These nurses made 3,766,240 calls during the year.

Every half second during 1937, a Metropolitan booklet, containing useful health information, was placed in somebody's hands.

Each working day throughout the year, new Metropolitan investments went into communities in various parts of the United States and Canada. These investments helped to create a demand for goods, aid realty values, give employment, and serve other modern social and economic needs.

There is more we would like to tell you about our 1937 Report. This is contained in a booklet entitled "The Human Side of the Ledger", which we shall be glad to send to you upon request. Use the coupon below.

A FLIGHT OF FANCY—THE PREMIER VISITS THE PRISONERS

Premier—I gather from your remarks, gentlemen, that you don't like jail with hard labor—that you don't wish to join the noble array of martyrs who have suffered from righteousness.

George—That's it, Doc. We do not want to be made the goats.

Premier—Think of all the famous men who have been in jail for periods varying from twenty-four hours to a life time. Think of Daniel in the lions' den.

George—Save him for the Prophetic Bible Institute, Doc. Daniel was too tough to chew and the lions were a hundred years old and had false teeth.

Premier—Think of John the Baptist.

Joe—Head on a charger. No thanks!

Premier—Think of the Man In The Iron Mask.

George—Must have been poison gas in the neighborhood.

Joe—What we want, Doc, is not famous examples of more or less prolonged servitude, sometimes ending fatally for the victims; but something in the line of how we're going to get out of here and how soon.—By H. F. Gadsby, in The Montreal Standard.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear," said the earl with a stricken look. "I believe I did mention a few things to old Bumpdy Beddington in the club. Completely forgot they call him the Wireless Duke because telling him anything is equivalent to broadcasting it. I'm truly most extraordinarily sorry, Ernest."

"Oh, it doesn't matter," said Ernest, and the thought that the circulation of London papers in rural form is infinitesimal comforted him.

Crump announced that Captain Duff-Cooper was calling. The captain sauntered in, looking very smart and au fait in his dinner suit. He greeted Rosa and the earl cordially, but his nod to Ernest was right out of the refrigerator.

"Dribble of coffee, Eame?" asked the earl.

"No, thanks."

"Scotch and splash, then?"

"Righto, Thanks."

"Ernest," said the earl, "has very kindly consented to allow the Hunt Ball to be held here."

"Decent of him," said the captain.

"Eame will mount you," said the earl to Ernest.

"Mount me?"

"Don't look so alarmed, my boy," said the earl. "I use the term in the hunting, not the taxidermy sense."

"You'll find Fin McCool a headstrong brute, Bingley," said the captain. "I had him out to-day. He's deuced erratic at taking walls, though not half bad at hedges and brooks. But he has lots of life and fire in him, and you'll enjoy riding him, I know."

Captain Duff-Hooper's chiselled features were not a field on which emotions played; but Ernest thought he detected in the captain's eye a glint which could only be described as malicious.

"Thank you, Captain," Ernest said. "But I think I won't go fox-hunting. I have no shot-gun."

Emotion did visit the face of Duff-Hooper then. Shock and horror showed there. The man who awoke to find tarantulas nesting in his beard was not more appalled than the captain at that moment.

"Come now, Ernest," said the earl. "You must not spoof Eame about fox-hunting. It's his religion, you know."

"I do hope you'll be with us on the hunt, Ernest," Rosa said.

"Are you hunting, Rosa?" he asked.

"Of course."

"Girl hasn't missed a meet since she was nine," said the earl. "And I've missed only three or four in forty years. One of them was three years ago when poor Gerald Munford broke his neck at Lester's Wall; and last year I was laid up with a cracked collar-bone I got at the same spot."

"I think I won't hunt this year," said Ernest. "Next year perhaps."

COULDN'T EAT COULDN'T SLEEP

Now Free of Bad Liver and Kidney Trouble and Feeling Fine

Here's a real woman who felt terrible until she found how to get back appetite, sleep soundly, and secure new health. Mrs. A. H. Montreal, writes, "I had years of liver complaint and dizzy headaches—bowels irregular, crippled with kidney trouble too—the appetite—no sleep. Many medicines gave me cramps. I tried Fruit-and-Flax and my health greatly improved. These famous fruit juice, herbs, and tonic tablets change and strengthen the liver, help stomach, kidneys, intestines. Troubles run. Health must improve. 25c. and 50c. All druggists."

plored the charms of the English countryside, often with Lady Rosa as his guide and companion, or investigated the castle, his castle, stone by stone. The whole world, he said to himself, is a fool's paradise, and the real fool is the one who does not enjoy it while he can. So, pursuing this opportunist philosophy, he snatched his fingers at the future, squelched upstart worries about Fin McCool, the danger of exposure, Lester's Wall, his finances, the ogre Punder, and the other thorns on his rose.

He was in an exalted frame of mind as he set out for a walk on a golden, sparkling morning. Behind him loomed Bingley Castle, to-day a seething cauldron, for it was the day before the hunt, and guests, servants, and an avalanche of luggage had begun to pour into the historic pile. Haughty, hooded horses were arriving in vans, and the stable-yard swarmed with how-legged grooms in stocks and gaiters, talking knowledge of matters equine.

It was not pleasant alone, nor the need of exercise that sent Ernest at a steady pace over hill and dale for a good four miles. He had a purpose, a mission.

On a previous ramble he had spied a fox entering its den in a copse not far from that ill-omened barrier, Lester's Wall. Ernest, hidden behind a bush, had watched the goings and comings of the graceful creature for an hour. His goal now was this lair, and his intention was to warn the fox to stay at home on the morrow, or, since there seemed to be no feasible way of conveying to the doomed animal the tip that some seventy humans and humans were about to gang up on it, Ernest hoped he could scare it and cause it to flee to some safe and distant spot.

He reached Lester's Wall, which, or so it seemed to him, was noticed like a wedge-shaped gun, with a hole for each hunter, who had come to grief attempting to jump it. He counted sixteen sinister nicks, and shuddered with each nick. The prospect that he might shortly find himself charging full tilt at it on the contumacious Fin McCool added nothing to his peace of mind. Then and there he resolved that he was not going to be the maker of the seventeenth nick.

The ancient problem: what would you do if you had a lion by the tail, hang on or let go, seemed kindergarten stuff to Ernest as he surveyed his own situation. To refuse to ride meant being branded as a saffron snob. If he did not care what Captain Duff-Hooper might think of him, but what Rosa Bingley might think of him seemed to Ernest the most important thing in the world. If he did ride he risked a broken heart, if he did ride he risked a broken neck.

He had considered a dozen schemes for extricating himself from his onerous predicament but they all seemed as full of holes as a tennis net. An astigmatic one-eyed morn could see through the use of being called to London on urgent business, he reflected. Besides it meant leaving his deerly-bought paradise for two days. He decided that, as a last resort, he could plead a sudden attack of illness, some mysterious American ailment like delayed sickness, and, artist that he was, he planned to eat a caterpillar or two, let his hair mangle would not lack in verisimilitude.

He scaled Lester's Wall, not soaring over it, but scrambling laboriously over it, and made his way to the fox burrow. He expected to find the fox going about its domestic duties innocent of the conspiracy afoot to deprive it of its brush and its future.

He saw no fox. He approached the entrance to its subterranean abode. Ten yards from it he stopped short. At his feet the green grass was stained with red blood. Now he understood the full meaning of a remark Captain Duff-Hooper had made at dinner the night before.

"We should have jolly good made," the captain had said. "Farmers report numerous foxes in the neighborhood. This morning Lord Bingley's pack had a splendid run. The fox nearly got to earth but they finally made the kill in Kingley's Copse." This then must be Kingley's Copse, and that arterial smear the life-blood of the morning fox, mangled in its own front yard, just two fragments leaps from sanctuary.

Ernest gave out a sound half groan, half oath.

"Too late," he said.

He bent down to examine the entrance to the hole. He sniffed a fox smell. For some reason, at that moment, he felt an impulse to run back to the castle and tag Duff-Hooper on his buck teeth with a heartfelt haymaker.

As he was about to turn away from the hole, he heard a sound which started off as a defiant bark and ended in a frightened whimper. Thence his arm to the shoulder of the burrow, he touched furs. He drew out a feebly squirming cub. The little creature made it plain that after waiting all night for the return of its mother, it was very hungry. Ernest watched the cub under his coat to keep it warm. He was in no danger of sharing the fate of the legendary Spartan boy, for the orphan was so young it could not bite, only nuzzle.

Ernest conveyed his captive back to the castle and smuggled it up to his tower room. He made no mention of it to any one for he had a feeling that they might consider that he was giving aid and comfort to the enemy in this one-sided war.

Having bedded the cub down on his overcoat in a closet, he tucked the bell-rope and summoned Sloat.

"Get me a jug of warm milk at once, please," Ernest said.

"Very good, sir."

"And see that a jug of milk is brought here every morning and evening."

"Yes, sir."

"I intend to take milk baths," said Ernest. "I hear they are good for the complexion."

Sloat departed to get the milk and to spread the news of this latest vagary of the mad American.

His soft-footed return found Ernest in the closet soothing the cub by stroking it. Ernest popped out of the closet and slammed shut the door.

"Thanks, Sloat," he said, taking the jug.

A plaintive whine came from the closet.

"What's that, sir?" asked Sloat.

"What's what?"

"That sound," sir.

"I heard no sound."

Once again the cub voiced its need for nourishment.

"There it is again, sir," said Sloat.

"It sounds like the cry of a very young baby."

"It is," said Ernest.

Sloat tried hard to remember that a dowered servant should not show his emotions, especially the most un-British of them, inquisitiveness. But curiosity scored yet another triumph over tact.

"Yours, sir?" inquired Sloat.

"Boy or girl, sir?"

"One of each."

"How old are they, sir?"

"Born this morning."

"Indeed, sir. And might I inquire, sir, when their mother is?"

"Oh, she's been down away," said Ernest.

"Done away with, sir?" quavered Sloat.

"Eaten."

"My word!" was all Sloat could say. "My word!"

He seemed about to flee from this unnatural fact and possible cannibal, when Ernest said,

"I'm joking, of course. There's no baby in the closet."

The cub made a liar of him with a yelp.

"I've fooled you, Sloat."

"You've astonished me, sir."

"I'm studying ventriloquism," explained Ernest. "The earl is teaching me to throw my voice."

Sloat relaxed.

"I should like to learn how, sir. I could teach Cook."

The cub made sounds fairly lusty for one so young.

"Am I good or am I good?" said Ernest.

"Marvelous, sir," said Sloat. "I could swear there was baby, or a young animal in there."

"That's what practice does," said Ernest. "You may go now, Sloat."

"Thank you, sir," said Sloat, and bore his latest bulletin from bidlam to a waiting servant's hall.

Among those into whose receptive ears Sloat poured this and other tales of the corbanic conduct of the castle's tenant was Babette, maid to the Duchess of Beddington. Babette was from the south of France, of the race of Tartarin of Tarascon, and she read many poets but few reports. The narrative with which Babette regaled her mistress while putting on that lady's evening face did not lack color however it may have sinned on the score of accuracy.

"Quel type d'homme!" said Babette. "I est toque."

"Don't jabber," said the duchess. She was an extensive lady known in her circle as "High-pockets."

"It is cracked," in the kitchen, that monsey, Eame!" said Babette.

"Shouldn't wonder," drawled the duchess. "Must be if he's a friend of George Bingley."

"This so droll one keeps bebes in his closet, and never wears the clothes," went on the maid.

"Never! Frugal of him," said the duchess.

"But he is of a richness formidable," said Babette etching on an eye-brow. "and, on dit, he has the sheep's eyes for Lady Rosa." 2247

"Mmmmmmm, said the duchess. "Though she was booked to marry that fink of a tin snoder."

"The betting in the servants' hall is even money to the contrary, Madame la Duchesse."

The Duke of Beddington, Bumpdy was naming about him at the club. Sops he's not a bad sort, really, and scandalously rich. Why, the fella stumped up a thousand of the best for a month's rent of this old hut without batting an eye."

"Babette, what she owns the Miss slappit River."

"Girl always exaggerates," said the duke. "Doubt if he owns more than half of it."

Dressed, he transported himself and mustache to the Great Hall, had three cups of brandies, and passed on his version of the Ernest saga to a fellow guest, Major General Sir Frederick Cowley, K.C.B., known in the artillery as "Mooley Cowley" because of his name and a noticeable resemblance to that useful animal.

Fella has a closefit of squawking babies, shoots foxes, and thinks he somebody in 'Tvanhos; but he own most of the Mississippi River," said the duke.

"Ernest said the major general. "Think I'll broach the subject of a slight loan," said the duke, "say five thousand for a starter."

"Shouldn't."

"Why not, Mooley? Fella's a Yank. All Yanks have a weakness for titles. And I'm a real duke, aren't I?"

"I'll wager you sumpence the fella will be tickled paid to let me have say, ten thousand."

"Doubt it."

"Why?"

"You're probably right," said the duke, sadly. "Well, Mooley, old sprout, here's mine in your wig."

"Toot-toot," said Sir Frederick, and they clinked glasses.

Sir Frederick handed on to the Hon. Mrs. Fordyce his information about Ernest, and she told Ronnie Pym, and he told Lady Gwladys Wotton, and she told Colonel Pringle, D.S.O., and he told the Countess of Balberry, and she rushed to the powder-room to scribble down the data for use in the next Dashing about With a Dowager column, which, under the pseudonym of "Goddia Gadabout" she conducted in one of the largest London dailies.

Ernest, unaware of the interest with which his advent was awaited, was playing nurse-maid to the fox cub behind locked doors, when he heard a thumping at his door.

"Who is it," he called out.

"Me," I replied the voice of the Earl of Bingley. "May I come in, please?"

"One moment," said Ernest.

He bent close to the little fox.

"Now be a good cub and keep quiet," he whispered.

The cub, full of milk and contentment, was licking the polish on Ernest's best shoes as he closed the closet door on it.

Ernest admitted the earl who was wearing the dinner suit he had acquired on his return from the Boer War. Already the bow of his black tie had ridden across his collar and was diving out of sight.

The earl sniffed.

"I say, what sort of perfume do you use, Ernest?" he asked.

"I never use any, sir."

"Don't you notice a rather racy aroma?"

"No, sir."

Former Private Receives Bible Lost On French Battleship

Twenty years ago, somewhere in the mud of a French battleship, a private in the A. E. F. lost the pocket Bible he had carried from his Minnesota home. A letter from Australia recently told him it had been found at Quernyuan, Australia, and would be forwarded if he would communicate with the finder. The Bible's owner is now the Rev. Samuel T. Blairmore Curlers Hold Banquet

Pincher Creek Offer Trophy in Pontiac-Studebaker Bouspiel

Sergt. Cawsey and his merry band of curlers wound up the season in Blairmore with a triumphant feast at the expense of President Harvey Carmichael and his would-be curlers in the Cosmopolitan hotel on Friday evening. Invitations had been sent to Coleman and Bellevue clubs, A. Destobel and A. Balloch representing Coleman, and W. Kerr, J. Fisher and Rev. R. Upton representing Bellevue.

Secretary Milt Congdon introduced a proposal made by Pincher Creek several weeks ago whereby the King Edward hotel of Pincher Creek is willing to donate a trophy to be known as the King Edward Cup on condition that Pincher be awarded the bouspiel every third year. Blairmore, after much argument, voted to accept the trophy. Coleman had no knowledge of Pincher's intentions regarding donating a cup and taking an active part in the 'spiel, a meeting would have to be called in the near future when Coleman and Bellevue delegates would consult their members. Dr. Rose of Hillcrest made a motion to hold a future meeting of delegates from Pass clubs to decide the matter.

Prizes were awarded to the winners of club events, shortly after which the banquet broke up amid good fellowship.

First Aid Competitions at Blairmore July 1

ADD MINE RESCUE IF FUNDS CAN BE OBTAINED

The Crow's Nest Pass (Alta.) First Aid and Mine Rescue Association was formed at a general meeting held in Blairmore Wednesday, March 16th.

The question of holding a First Aid and mine rescue competition in the Pass this summer was discussed from every angle. It was felt that the association could not raise sufficient funds to hold competitions in first aid and mine rescue work, so it was decided that the Workmen's Compensation Board be approached, and a donation solicited for either first aid competition or for mine rescue work. In any event, the association decided to go ahead and make plans for holding a first aid competition in Blairmore on July 1, and if a large enough grant is forthcoming from the board, competitions in mine rescue work will be included.

In former years, only those who were the holders of first-aid certificates were allowed to compete or to be a member of a competing team. This year the holding of a certificate will not be a necessary qualification.

The association accepted with thanks the offer of Coleman to supply a trophy and individual cups for junior teams competing in first aid competitions. It will not be necessary for members of teams to have certificates, but they must be under 16 years of age on the day of the event.

Officers of the new association are: E. Morgan, district inspector of mines, president; D. Young, Mohawk mine, vice-president; M. H. Congdon, of Blairmore, secretary-treasurer.

The following members were appointed to the executive committee: S. McIntosh, McGillivray mine; R. Greenhalgh, International mine; E. Coates, Bellevue mine; R. Henderson, Hillcrest mine; D. Young, Mohawk mine; R. Oakes, sr., Greenhill mine; J. Rushton, town of Coleman; Alf. McKay, town of Blairmore; J. Morris, town of Bellevue, and Ed. Royle.

PREMIER SETS BAD EXAMPLE

The result of Monday's by-election shows that Mr. Aberhart is wrong when he states he speaks for the people of Alberta. Less than 50 per cent of the vote was for Social Credit. He will also find that the people loyal to Canada and the Empire will not be misled by his attempts to stir up disaffection against the Federal government. He sets a very bad example in preaching disunity and the day will come when his chickens will come home to roost.
